What are aid organizations and why should you become a member of them?

Aid organizations are founded for a wide variety of motives. In many cases, humanitarian aid is behind it, but there are also organizations that are concerned with helping animals or protecting and preserving cultural assets or similar. The aid organization is often financed by donations, but also by contributions from members. In many aid organizations, the members also participate in the actions.

For these reasons, memberships in aid organizations are important and useful.

Supporting membership

Asociación HelpCoin - Aid organization for children's aid, environmental or animal protection, education or development aid.

With a supporting membership, everyone can contribute to further develop the work and the idea of the Asociación HelpCoin. Sustaining members are members who can be active within the association, but also inactive.

The goals and purpose of the association is promoted and supported by a voluntary financial contribution. The minimum contribution is regulated.

1. Admission of a supporting member

Every natural, adult and legal person can become a supporting member of the association.

The application for membership must be in writing and signed. Without a signed application for admission and confirmation of admission by the Board of Directors, no sponsoring membership contract is concluded.

The board of directors decides on a written application for membership. If the application for admission is rejected, the Board is not obliged to inform the applicant of the reasons.

The sustaining member shall receive a sustaining membership certificate and, at the end of the year, a certificate of his or her sponsorship payments for submission to the tax office.

2. Termination of a sustaining membership

The sponsoring membership ends

- by death of the sustaining member
- in the case of legal entities and partnerships with legal capacity, by loss of legal personality if confirmation of sponsorship is not provided in writing.
- by resignation or
- by exclusion

The withdrawal can take place at any time, with a written information to the executive committee. A confirmation by the Asociación HelpCoin and a return of the sponsoring member application do not take place.

The exclusion of a sustaining member takes place

- because of association damaging behavior and
- if no promotional activities for the association
- over a longer period of time - are recognizable
- if the minimum contribution is not paid

As a longer period 1 year is named. A written information about the exclusion does not take place.

3. Rights of the supporting member

- Participation in general meetings
- participation in social activities of the association
- active suggestions, support and participation for the promotion of the association's tasks
- Right to receive regular information about the work of the association
- Possibilities of further education, according to the additional agreement of the Asociación HelpCoin

Supporting members are entitled to participate, but not to make decisions.

Each sustaining member receives the following association documents:

- Current articles of association - contribution rules
- Annual reports of the association and current flyers, newsletters, etc.
- Invitations to general meetings or internal association events
- Additional agreement for further education

After at least 1 year of supporting membership, the member can submit a written application for full membership. The decision about the confirmation is made by the board of directors.

4. Duties of a supporting member

- Recognition, recognizable support and promotion of the goals of the association
- payment of the membership fee
- conscientious realization of assumed tasks
- Confidentiality about internal affairs of the association towards outsiders
